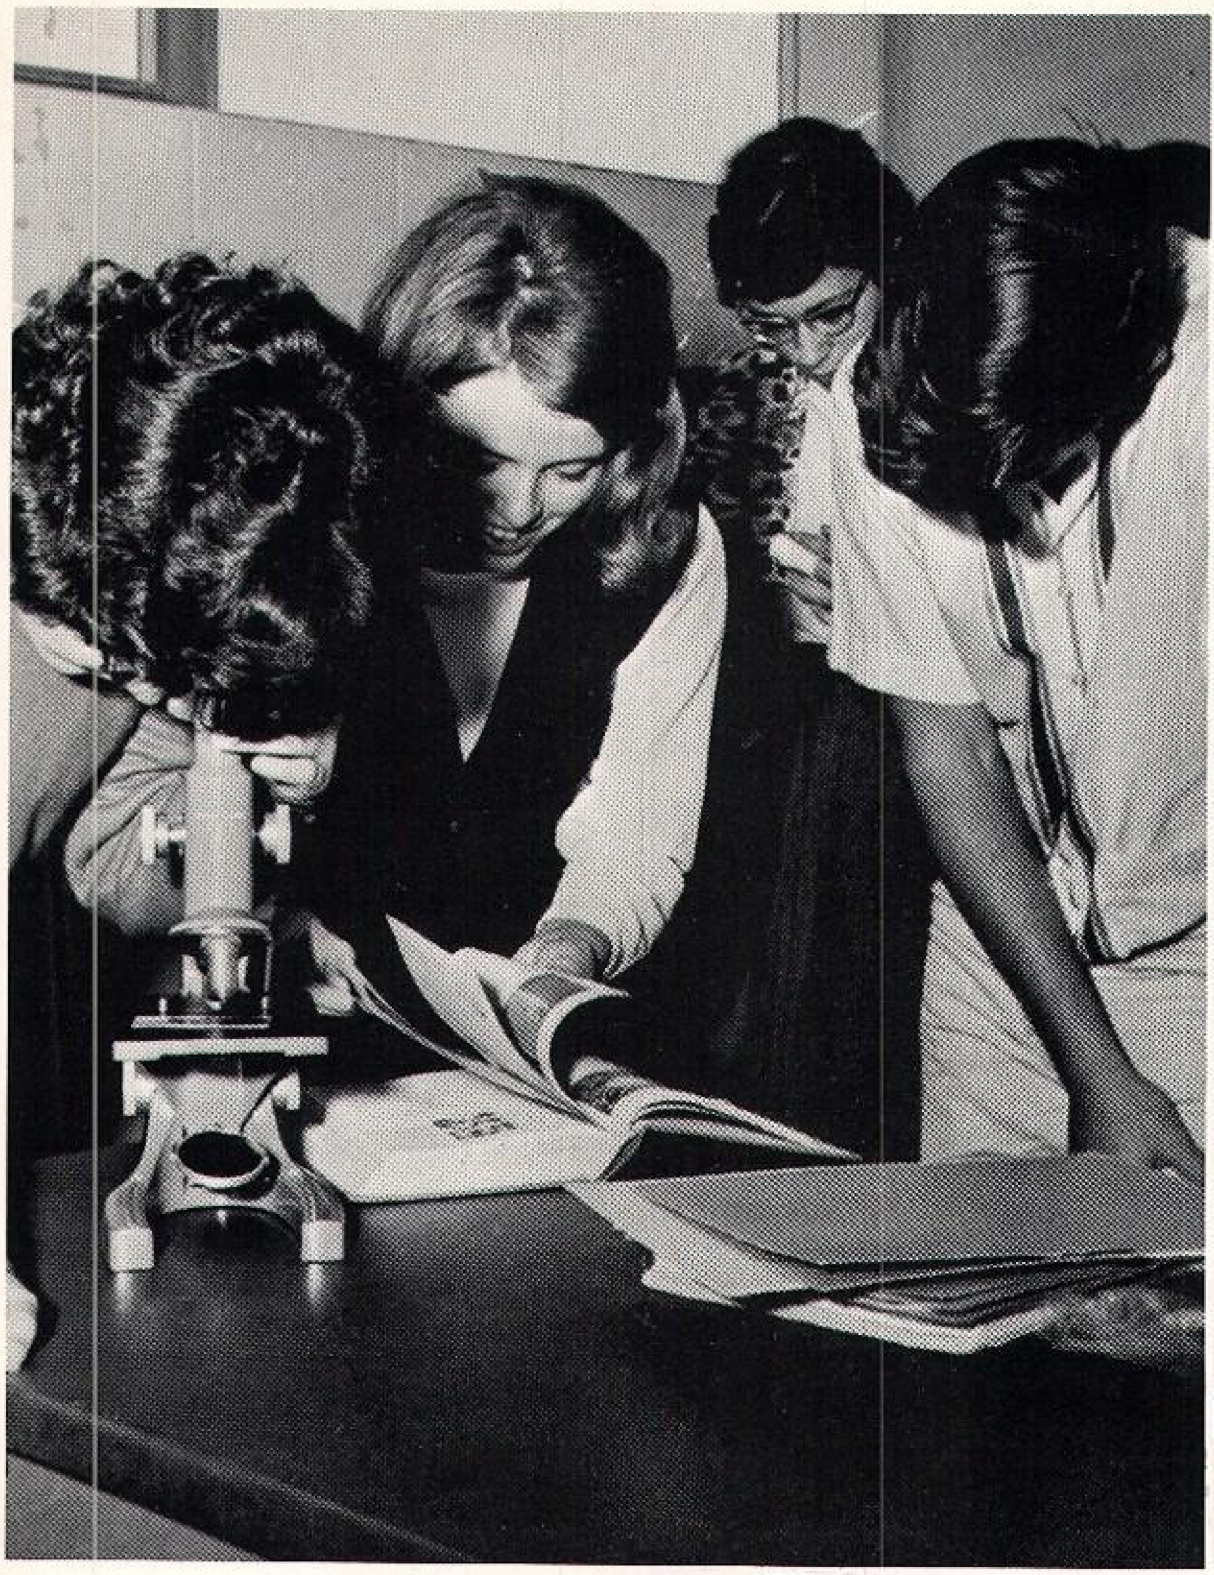
A deepening mystery crossed my mind, who are these throngs of young mankind?



Each day calls for industrious students and dedicated teachers . . .

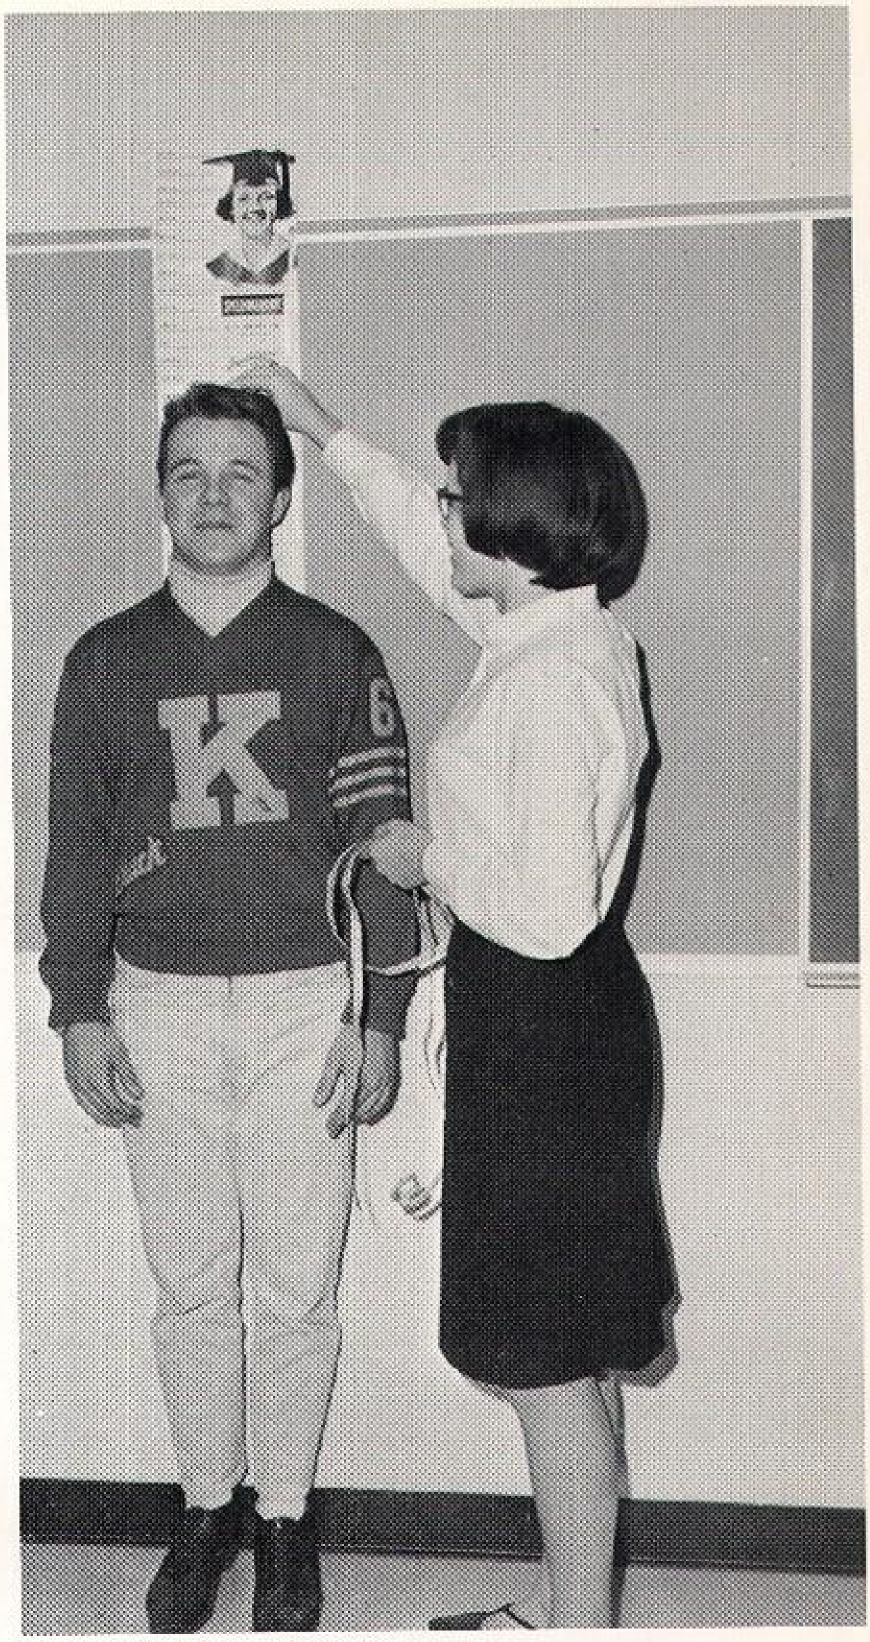
[illegible]

While nights often afford a time for fun and relaxation.

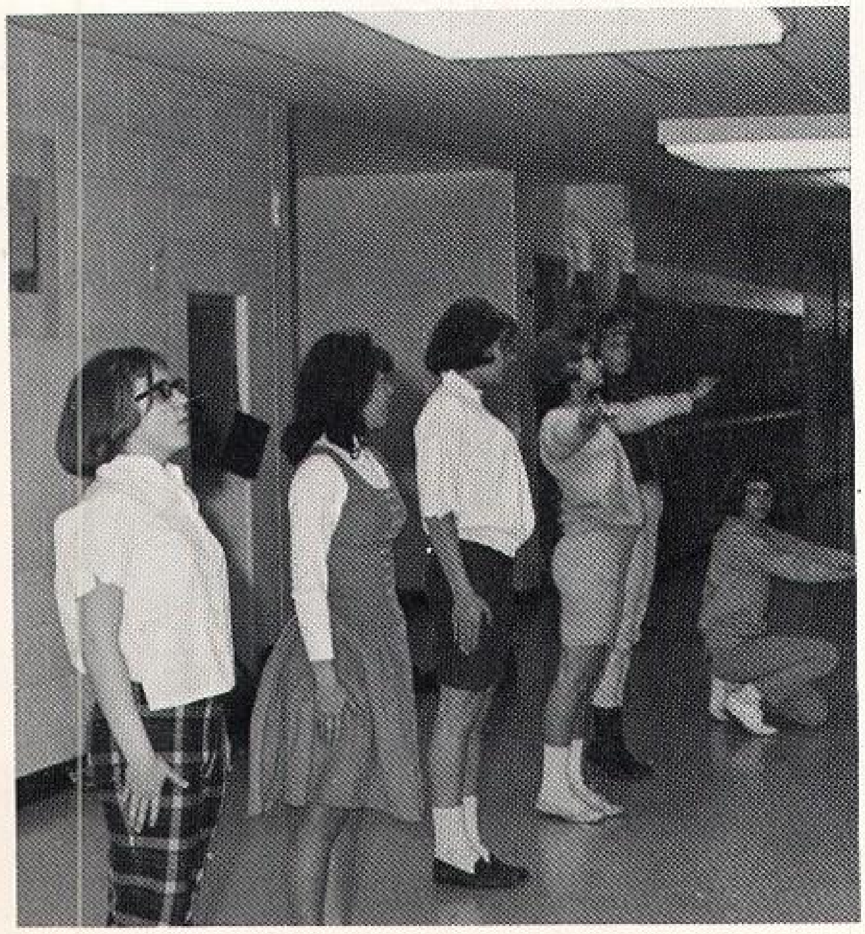
Impatience plays its part in our nature.....

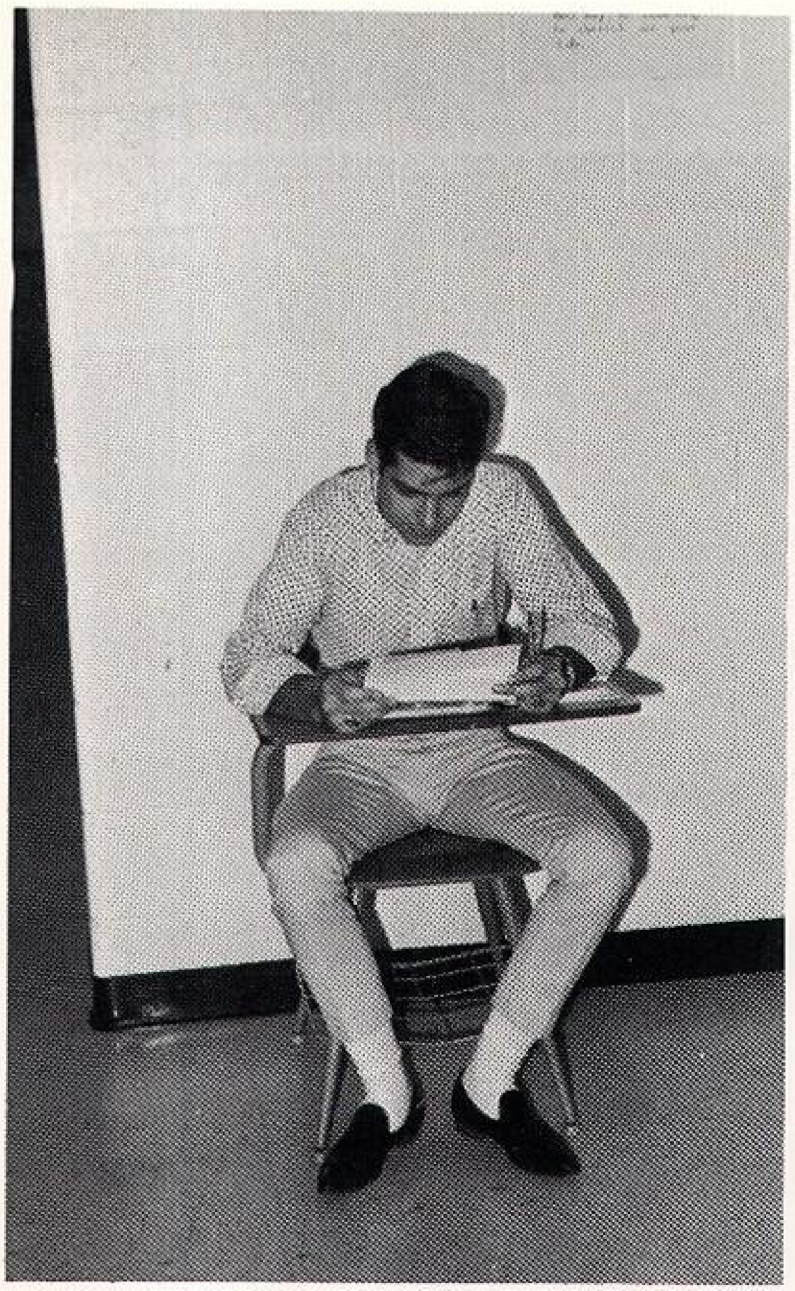
But patience can be a rewarding virtue.

Confusion and indecision harass the life of a freshman...
Then graduation provides the reward for perseverance and effort.



We delight in the times when we can be clad as hoboes.......
But when we don white shirts, heels and gloves, formality is enjoyed.





Solitude gives us the opportunity to understand ourselves...

But the time we spend together will never be forgotten....

We are challenged to be the leaders of tomorrow.

We are proud to be the youth of a free nation today.

We admit that we can be unpredictable, our attitudes change daily and our moods by the minute. In our youth we are experimenting with ideas and opinions. We are alone as individuals in a personal sense, yet we are each a part of the whole. As individuals, as the whole, as fans, as athletes, as singers, as participants and as audience, as leaders and as followers, we discover that...

We are the spirit of K. H. S.!

Languages strengthen international understanding

The Bible tells the story of a people who attempted to build a mighty tower to heaven. In anger at this act, God destroyed this Tower of Babel and scattered the people over the earth. To each He gave a different tongue so that they could not understand each other.

Today humanity is attempting to overcome the language barrier and thereby, inunity, eliminate conflicts due to misunderstanding. This is done through the learning of foreign languages and mastering of expression in one's native tongue.

Teachers use the library to prepare lessons and exchange ideas.

English provides the basis for all subjects.

College is "the" thing of the present

Juniors seem to enjoy American History.

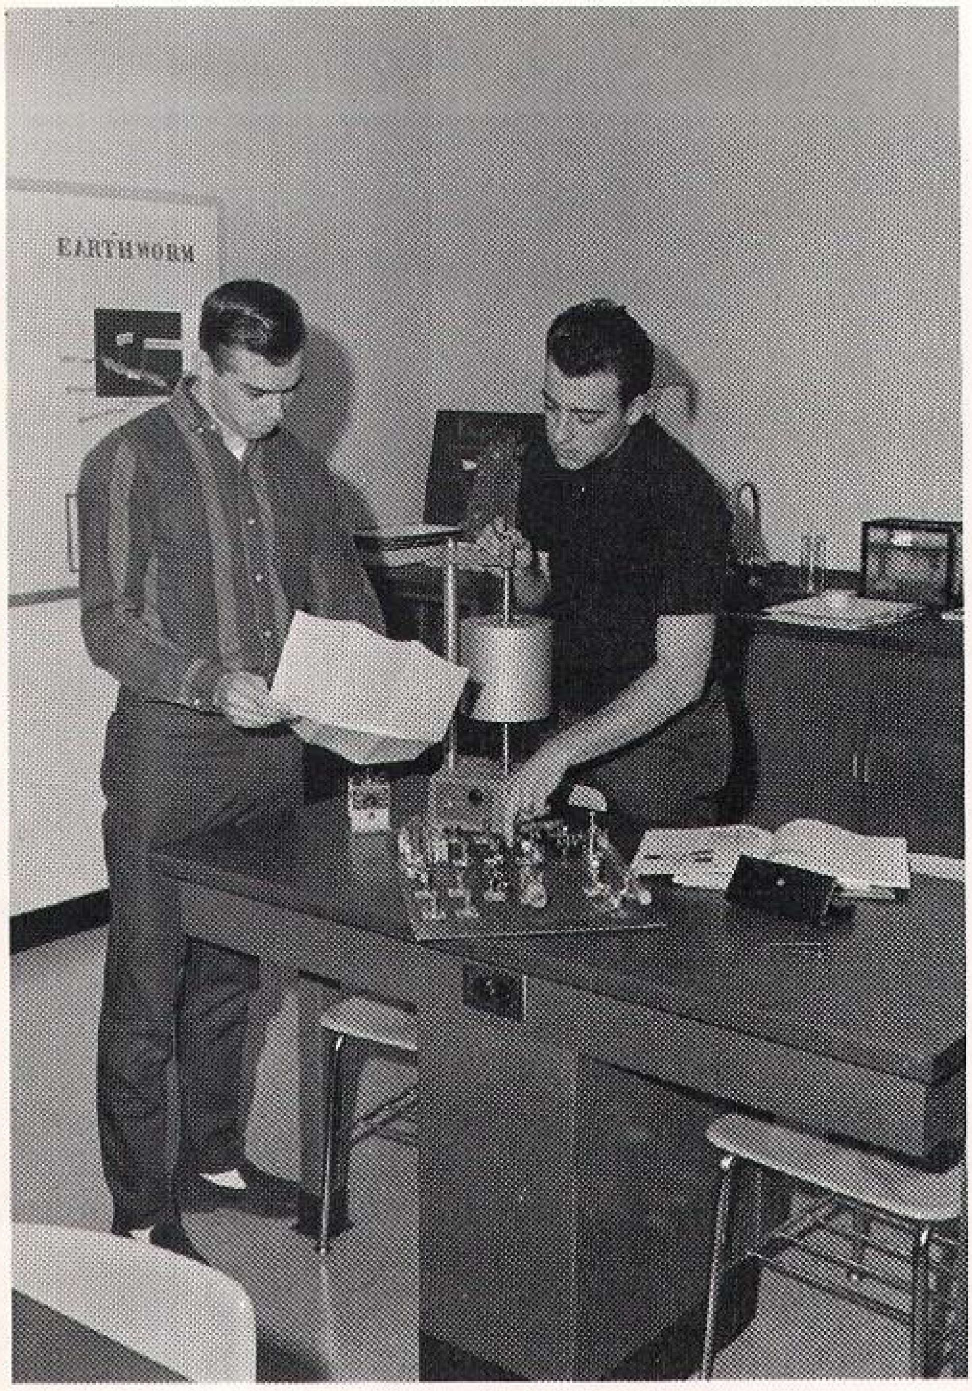
past, present and future.

Gaining knowledge of our country's government.

Checking on the exact location of the specific locale discussed in class are Doug Hansen, Valerie Swanson, Sue Weinert and Mr. Palluconi.

"Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." This appeal by President Kennedy in his inaugural address should be included in one's personal credo. These formative years shape and qualify us to become the leaders of tomorrow's America. Soon we will be making our contribution toward the history of our great country. Some give the supreme sacrifice -- their lives, for their belief in democracy. Most of us will serve less conspicuously by paying taxes, voting and obeying the law. Blind patriotism is not the answer; informed citizenry is. Today the emphasis in social studies is not on style, but on accuracy of information and soundness of historian's judgement. At KHS, studies of the social sciences are made more interesting and tangible by the use of audio-visual equipment. Realistic treatment is applied even to the government of the United States. Instead of believing this government is always right, policies are questioned. History is interwoven with the present for it was once said that those who do not know history will be forced to repeat it.

Unusual experiences occur in



"To be a Homo sapiens or not to be a Homo sapiens; that is the question." The answer, which lies in the number of chromosomes in the body cells, proves again the connection between mathematics and science. Delving into the magical world of figures, angles, and equations, Kingsford students gain a broad mathematical background ranging from General Math to Senior Math or Advanced Algebra, and including Algebra and Geometry. Complementing the math courses, Kingsford's Science Department presents the opportunity to study biological chemical and physical sciences. Students of physical science gain general knowledge of the earth and its make-up, while chemistry students study matters, energy, and the effects of their physical and chemical changes. General and Advanced Biology courses include material covering the study of life from the unicellular amoeba and lower plants, to the multi-cellular human. A wonderful new field, that of botany, is now wide open through the addition of the botanical growing room. Physics introduces the natural laws governing the environments of these forms of life.

New rooms and attractive furnishings provide learning opportunities in household organization. Family Living prepares for problems of investment possibilities, insurance, parenthood, child development and budget planning.

To answer the need of the commercial student, training is offered in the use of office machines. Also the opportunity is given to gain skills and knowledge in the area of home economics, so useful in the business world. Students are taught the two basic requirements of a business society - writing letters of application and preparing for job interviews.

Likewise, Driver's Training attempts to produce a majority of safe, alert drivers who practice the art of defensive driving. Combined, this education prepares its students to become successful members of society.

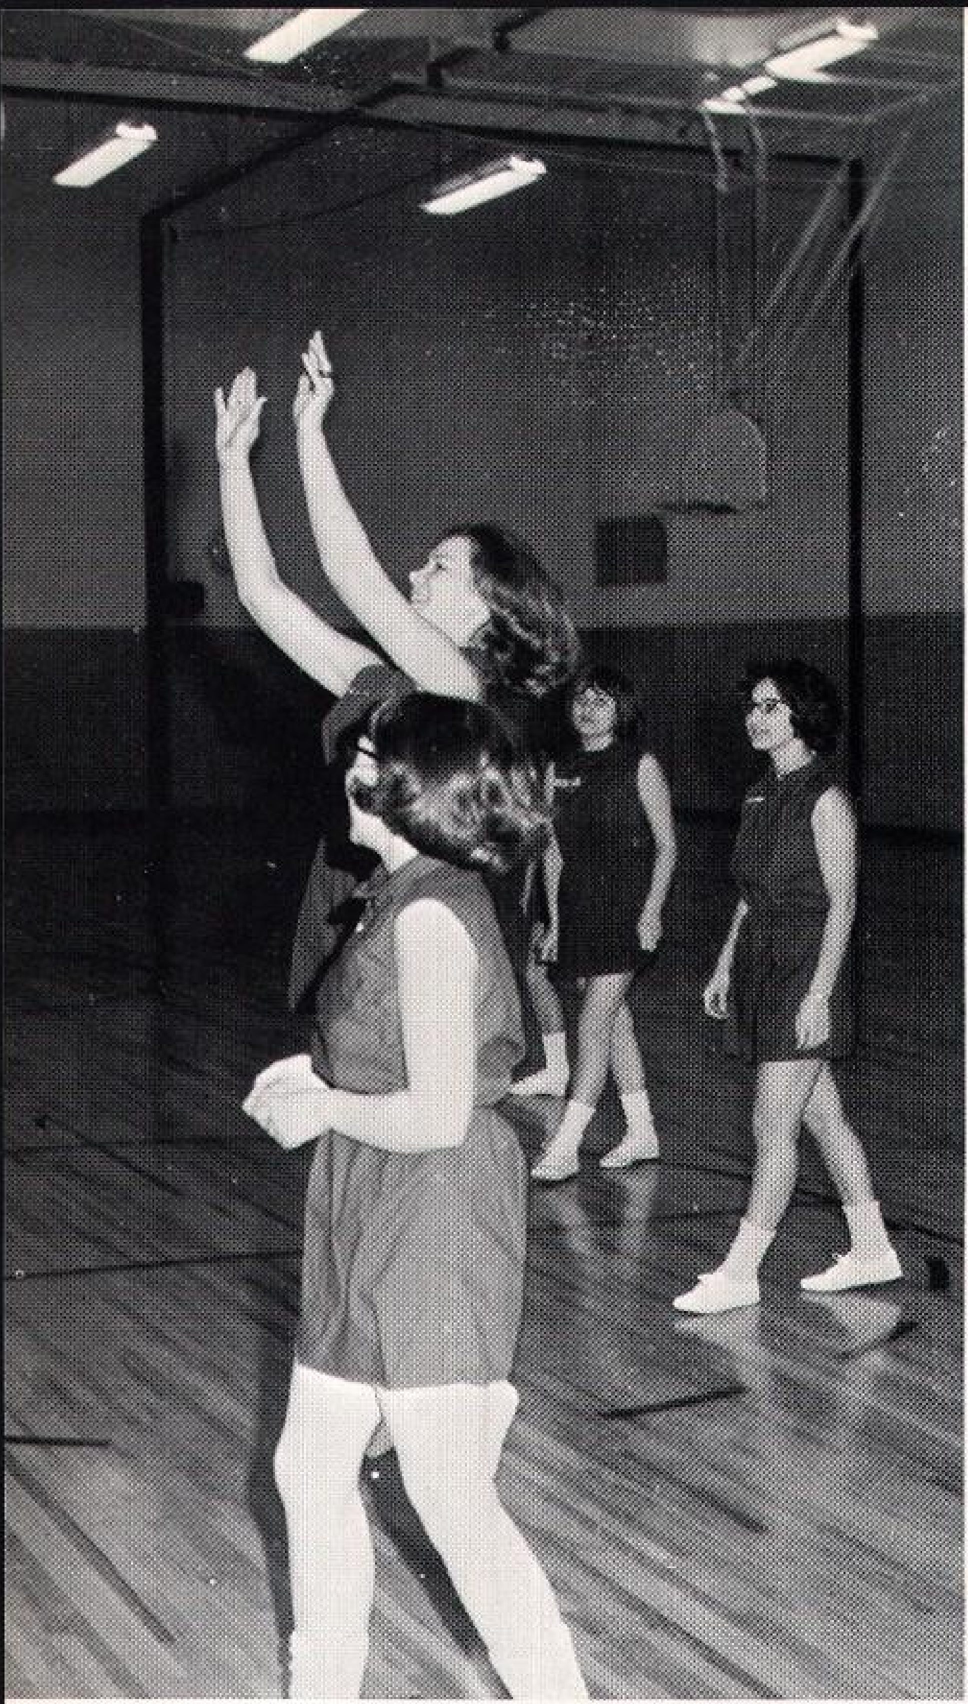
artists.

Dean London uses tools for designing.



Strong bodies and strong minds go hand in hand.

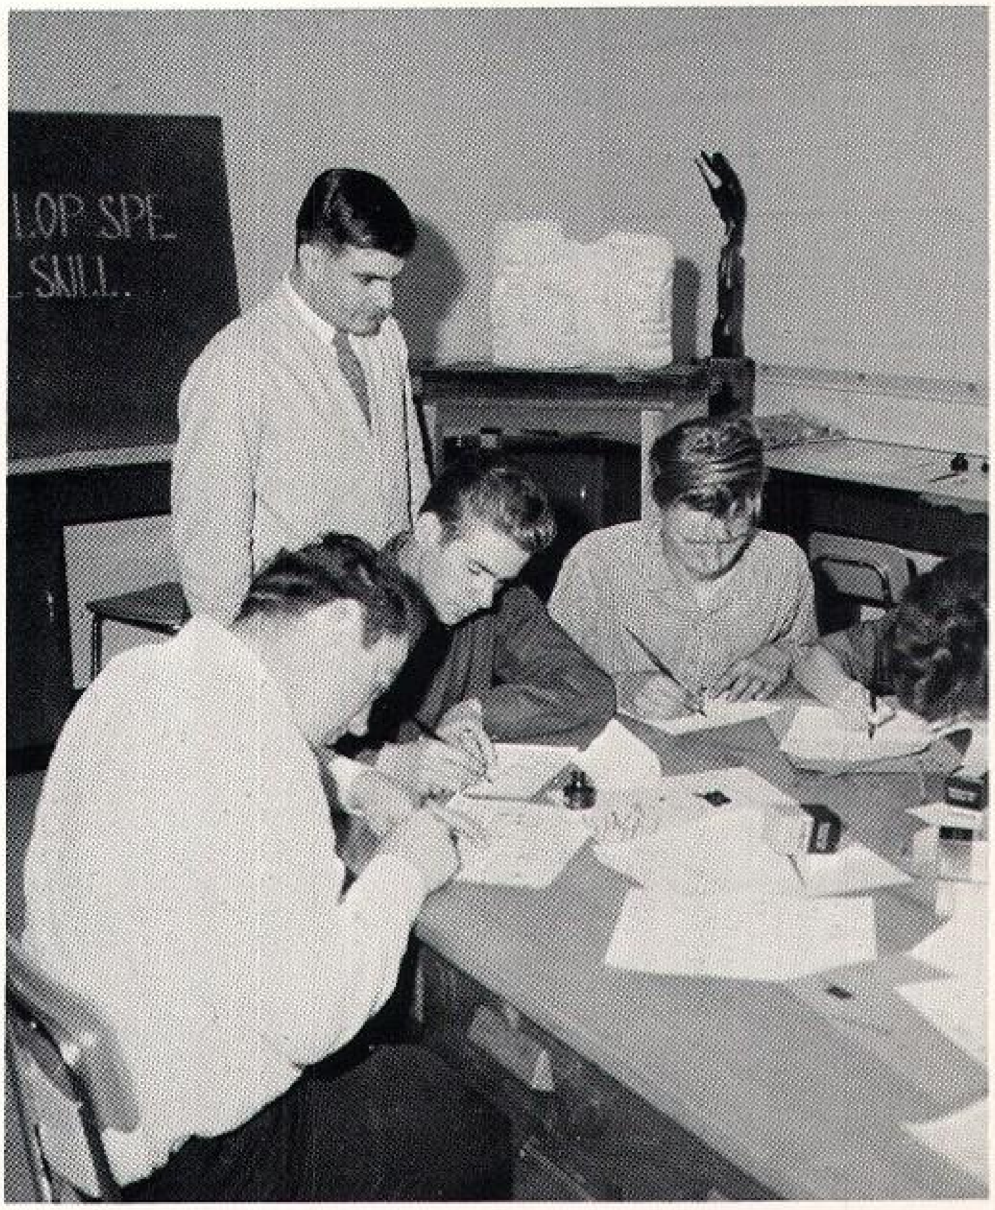
John F. Kennedy once stated, "The need for increased attention to physical fitness is clearly established. The Government cannot compel us to act, but freedom demands it. A nation is merely the sum of all its citizens and its strength, energy, and resourcefulness can be no greater than theirs." In the present school curriculum, physical education plays an important role in a student's general schooling. Physical education is designed to provide each with an orderly program of exercise, necessary to develop the body and stimulate the mind. Made possible by the expansive new gymnasium, the net result is the growth of a healthy individual. The physical education program inspires students to develop abilities, solve various physical deficiencies, and encourages participation in a variety of activities.

Making paper mache in preparation for the Christmas project.

The finished product! A manger scene created by the art class.

Art department is valuable addition to school.

To create is to experience the immeasurable thrill of bringing into being some tangible object often with symbolic properties. An unwieldly log transformed into a sleek figure of beauty; a pile of newspapers becomes a manger scene; a sheet of paper to a vivid scene of harmony in depth and tone. Art is a skill which demands sensitivity of hands and spirit. The artist puts himself into his work and therefore his feelings may be interpreted by the keen observer. Patience is necessary to shape the lines of the most difficult of subjects---the human face. Recognizing the character behind the face and portraying it as such brings life into the work. A sweep of the brush can cause shadows of gloom or create the glorious dawn of a new day.



The art class gets practice in lettering. (Russell Cearney, Mr. Yasseri, Bruce Robson, Randy Larsen.)

Future Nurses prepares students for medical careers.

The Future Nurses Club provides a glimpse of the medical profession which KHS students are considering as a career. Various speakers at club meetings make available to members their knowledge and the experience of their professions. Students who were once members of the club often return to give the groups their reactions as an aspiring young member of the nursing profession.

Another benefit made available to members is the opportunity to do volunteer work at the Memorial Hospital. This gives each one a chance to see if this is the work to which they want to dedicate themselves.

Gaining experience, Future Teachers face tomorrow.

College is becoming more imperative and thus the teaching profession has grown considerably. The Future Teachers Club gives its members insight into this area of work. Speakers attend meetings to introduce students to the various fields of teaching. Besides this, an opportunity is given the members to teach in the field of their choice.

Each year a scholarship is awarded to a deserving senior member. This scholarship is awarded on the basis of scholarship, need and service to the club.

Officers Caryl Perkins and Jock Hyland consult with Mr. Fiorucci in setting a date for a meeting.

Homemaking is a continuing education.

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization of girls and boys studying homemaking in high schools of the United States. The primary goal of this organization is to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living, now and in the future. The FHA club contributes to two state FHA scholarships for college students taking up Home Economics.

Future Business Leaders of America prepare for business world.

Some clubs combine their services to produce something worthwhile. Such is the case of the F.B.L.A. which does the typing of the "Flash". Typing of the Iron Mountain News and selling personalized stationary earn money for a scholarship given to a deserving club member and is based on scholastic ability, need, and service. Members are commercial students using the club as a chance to explore the world of business.

Apollo Science Club deals with mysteries of science.

The Apollo Science Club provides an opportunity for students to further their scientific interests. This is accomplished by projects, field trips and speakers who share their knowledge of science. Once again the science club has sponsored a science fair for the papers and projects of students in the Breitung Township School System. Each is judged on the basis of creativity, scientific thought and presentation.

Debate becomes channel of information and persuasion.

Debate has long been a channel of "informative persuasion." Evidence, analysis, refutation, persuasion, logic, organization and delivery are all vital parts which must be polished and coordinated to perfection by all debaters.

Even as in the days of Julius Caesar, the debaters of a modern today are of enough importance to be of a challening interest to all.

Sure, it's a lot of work and nervous stomachs because of the certain amount of extemporaneous speaking involved. Beyond this, however, there are events in every meet which debaters will cherish in a corner of their memories forever.

As the day commences, there is the air of anticipation and tension as teams from all over the Upper Peninsula whisper nervously about evidence they already know by heart and plans which they could recite in their sleep.

As the last round of debating ends, laughter is heard often, the strain is over, and the debaters leave their podiums (winning or losing) with tired feet, but a feeling of real accomplishment.

What's new?

The Flivver Flash, Kingsford's high school paper, covers important events throughout the year. The staff is composed of many members who act as editors, reporters, and advertising managers. Interviews, interesting polls, articles, and other important school data offer many opportunities to students who wish to increase their knowledge of journalism.

Kingsfordian records

An annual must serve the function of recording the year's activities for memory or reference. The Kingsfordian staff, to carry out this function, must be a combination of bloodhounds who have the ability to search out action; typists with fingers of lightning; have the imagination of the student who is late for class; and have the stubborness and determination of a mule. The school year 1965-66 has seen the flashing of pictures which capture the removal of a frog's spinal cord, a cheer for the Flivver victors, or the concentration on the face of the student sculptor.

Gosh! That's cute of me!
